On making recommendations on those matters before the Planning Board at this meeting, consideration has been given to the rights set out in Article 8 - rights to privacy - and Article 1 of the first protocol - right to peaceful enjoyment of possessions - of the European Convention on Human Rights, as detailed below: -

ARTICLE 8: Right to respect for private and family life

1 Everyone has the right to respect for his private and family life, his home and his correspondence.

2 There shall be no interference by a public authority with the exercise of this right except such as is in accordance with the law and is necessary in a democratic society in the interests of national security, public safety or the economic well-being of the country, for the prevention of disorder or crime, for the protection of health or morals, or for the protection of the rights and freedoms of others

Site visits

Points for the Planning Board to consider when deciding whether to visit a site before determining a planning application:

- 1 Site visits can cause delay and additional costs and should only be used where the expected benefit is substantial.
- 2 Many Councils allow site visits to be triggered by a request from the Ward Councillor. It is acknowledged that this is a proper part of the representative role of the member, and should sometimes be acceded to, but the substantial benefit test should still apply. It is also good practice to keep a record of the reasons why a site visit is called.
- 3 A site visit is only likely to be necessary if:
  - a the impact of the proposed development is difficult to visualise from the plans and any supporting material, including photographs taken by the officers - although if that is the case, additional illustrative material should have been requested in advance; or
  - b there is good reason why the comments of the applicant and objectors cannot be properly appreciated without visiting the site, or the proposal is particularly contentious.
